

WHY IS IT SO SCARCE AROUND OMAHA

Member of Commerce Advised of Plentiful Supply and Asked to Get Buyers.

The Chamber of Commerce is in receipt of advice from the Omaha Chamber of Commerce that there is a fairly unlimited supply of alfalfa hay of the highest quality in the irrigated districts west and north-west of Omaha.

This hay has not been offered through the general market until this season because of the over-landed ranges adjacent to the hay fields required all of it. It is available at this time on account of the scarcity of livestock and an emergency freight rate put into effect to afford financial relief to the hay growers. The hay grown under irrigation and cured and stacked without weather exposure is of a quality unknown outside of the irrigation districts. It is being offered at a price below the actual cost of harvesting, baling and shipping.

The Omaha Chamber of Commerce is asking the local body to advise local dealers to this effect with a view of absorbing some of the surplus. Full information may be obtained by communicating with the Omaha hay exchange.

The Secret of Beauty

A wonderful new astringent skin treatment for removing wrinkles and skin blemishes was recently discovered in the private laboratories of Gervais Graham, the world famous beauty specialist, who numbers among his patients such celebrated women as Geraldine Farrer, Kitty Gordon, and many of the world's beautiful women.

This entirely new treatment—which was named the Graham Beauty Secret—tightens the loose outer skin, removes wrinkles quickly, lifts the sagging muscles back into place, removes blackheads, cures coarse, enlarged pores, nourishes the inner skin tissues and makes the skin firm, smooth and fine textured.

Graham Beauty Secret is an astringent skin tonic, entirely different from any treatment which you have ever used. It gives almost immediate results and will not irritate the most delicate skin.

You can obtain Graham Beauty Secret in convenient opal jars, at all first class drug counters. It is not expensive, as the large jar lasts for several months. Those who have used it are amazed at the quick results, and delighted with the improvement in their appearance.

RECAPS COUNCIL ST. HEALING A COAT FROM HIM

Arthur Kloman of Rock Island didn't appreciate the hospitality of his cousin, William Kloman of Davenport, William told the Davenport police yesterday that he had fed and lodged Arthur for more than a month while he was jobless and the only thanks he received was the theft of an overcoat and suit, the total valued at more than $100.

The clothing was found in Arthur's room in Rock Island after he was arrested. William held the charge of petty larceny against his cousin and Magistrate Melton of Davenport sent the confused thief to the Scott county jail for 30 days.

Arthur was arrested in Rock Island Wednesday night and taken to Davenport following filing of information against him by William. In court William and his wife told how they had fed and clothed Arthur for the last five weeks and were repaid by the theft.

MANGELS GIRL ASKS $10,000 FROM M'ANN

When Civil Action in Davenport District Court to Obtain Exemplary Damages.

Isabelle L. Mangels, 17-year-old shop girl who caused the arrest of A. G. McMann of Davenport, an auto dealer on a statutory charge last spring, has filed a civil action in district court against the man asking actual and exemplary damages in the sum of $10,000.

The suit is filed by Mary Mangels, the girl's mother and next friend. Raymond & Raymann are attorneys for the plaintiff. The case will be assigned for trial in the January term of court.

The claim to damages is based upon an auto ride taken by the girl on May 21. McMann was arrested the following day on a state charge and held to the grand jury.

When the September grand jury convened the girl went before the investigating body and repudiated her original story. This action resulted in clearing the auto dealer of the state charge and the case was dismissed by the grand jury with a "no bill" report.

The girl now claims that she cannot obtain her customary employment by reason of the act alleged to have been committed by McMann.

Duplex engineering

—one oil-control for speed and one for actual work

Saxon solves the problem of proper motor lubrication with two oil-controls operating within the motor—one for speed and one for actual work.

When idling or coasting down hill at high speed, the conventional car is flooded with oil because the oil supply is governed only by motor speed—fouled spark plugs and carbon naturally follow. Saxon's double oil-control—under these conditions—retards the oil supply, giving the motor just enough oil—not too much.

Saxon

When the conventional car is pulling through deep sand or up a steep hill at slow speed the motor is starved for oil because the oil supply is limited by the speed of the motor—burned-out bearings sometimes result. Saxon's patented double oil-control—under these conditions—automatically supplies more oil in exact proportion to the additional work being performed by the motor.

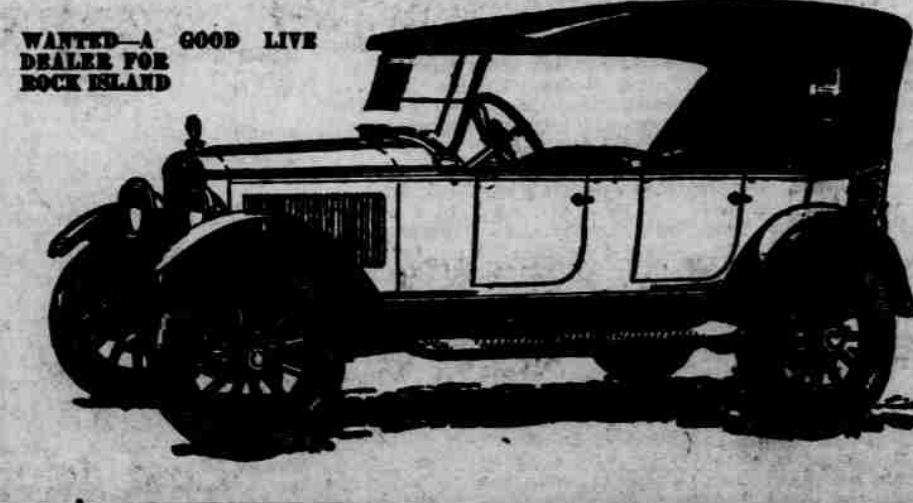

Let us demonstrate to you the other patented features of Duplex Engineering (because Duplex means double) which places Saxon at least two years ahead of present standards
